able secretary in accepting the of the employees. But he had that while they had decided to have their dinner he would them their usual half holiday. It was at once agreed that a celebration would be held in the chapel the usual lunch hour. Every employee would stop. There would be special music, plantation melodies and addresses made for the occasion and their families and friends would be invited for the occasion.

Patriotism inspired by the noble sacrifices already being made by the Tennessee boys now at the various day in this city when the employees of the National Baptist Publishing House gave up their dinner order that the money usually spent this annual occasion might be contributed into religious literature so he drafted men in the various elements would have more of pure us tracts. For twenty years, and Mrs. Boyd with the various members of the Publishing Board have ven this New Year's dinner. For twenty years the employees at the National Baptist Publishing House plant ve gathered around the festive ard and partaken of a sumptuous past.

For twenty years the occasion has been observed as one of the three annual events looked forward to by anyone that has ever been employed the plant and like English tradition it had become a part of their existence. And this year the was veritably prepared, the selected and the caterer was to make the spread" at the time. But the real, true right desire to win the war position of our men and the able the millions of dollars we had, together with the agitahelp the boys, seemed to have n of each employee at the number who were not able to give onally in any of the campaigns ed to have been waiting for the rtunity to show their real, deep, ng love for the country and with ting was on the usual order, minus the turkey and the cranberries, which are to be replaced by a substantial Bible or some other literature into the hands of the soldier boys.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 1.—Inspired by patriotic motive, the employees of the National Baptist Publishing Board decided to forego their turkey and to ask the venerable Dr. Boyd, the Secretary of the Publishing Board, to give the money that he usually appropriates for the New Year's dinner to the boys in the camps.

For twenty years Dr. and Mrs. Boyd, together with the members of the Publishing Board, have given the annual New Year's dinner to the hundreds of employees of the plant. It has been estimated that approximately five hundred dollars have been expended by Dr. Boyd and his wife for this annual occasion. It has gone on so long that only about two of the list of employees out of the one hundred and fifty on the pay roll can recall when it did not exist.

Every preparation had been made, a turkey menu selected, the caterer agreed upon, the silver-ware, china-ware and the linens had been ordered, but on last Saturday the employees held a meeting in the chapel. It was a patriotic meeting, and Miss N. E. King, who is at the head of the Proof Reading Department, offered a resolution that "since our boys are in need of religious literature, and since the Publishing Board is leading all others in the supplying of this literature, that we, the employees, join in with the movement, sacrificing our New Year's dinner in order that the cost of the same might be converted into suitable Bibles, song books and Sunday school helps." When this resolution was offered, a number of speeches were made by the foremen of the heads of the various departments, including L. K. Thomas of the Composing Room; Wm. Franklin of the Press Room; L. S. Gray of the Book Binding Department; L. Landers of the Mailing Department; G. Phineas Baker of the Second Class Mailing Department; Dr. W. S. Ellington, the Editorial Secretary, Wm. Cheers and others.

When Dr. Boyd was apprised of the action he was overcome with emotion and readily consented. So on New Year's Day instead of gathering around the festive board, they gathered in the chapel, held their usual meeting, sang patriotic songs, listened to three set speeches and took the balance of the day in the observance of Emancipation.

"I want to congratulate you upon this voluntary action and while our board has already been sending a deal of literature, I can go to them with a thorough assurance of your co-operation when I tell them you of your own free will and accord have volunteered to request that the money that would be spent today in entering into a right cause, then you become a regular missionary," declared the secretary among other things.

The president of our convention, the members of the Sunday school forces throughout the country and the people as a whole, I feel sure, will grant you first place among the patriotic citizens for this noble act. Whether you eat your dinner or whether you give it away was yours to do. But since you have given it away and given it for a righteous cause, then you become a regular missionary," declared the secretary among other things.

Following this the Rev. G. W. Doodbey was called and delivered a strong address, telling of the accomplishments of the race and the denomination. He proved by the Bible that the Ethiopian himself had become careless in his religion and that he would be the loser because of this carelessness.

Then Rev. Dr. Harding, president of the Tennessee Baptist State Convention was introduced and spoke, so that the entire time that had been usually taken for this festive occasion was consumed, the usual amount of oratory heard, in fact the entire siting was on the usual order, minus the turkey and the cranberries, which are to be replaced by a substantial Bible or some other literature into the hands of the soldier boys.

JIMMIE HODGES IN "PRETTY BABY," WITH JEAN TYNES.

"Pretty Baby," the sensational Musical Comedy, with Jimmie Hodges and Jean Tynes in the leading roles, which comes to the Orpheum Theatre on Monday, Jan. 7th, for one week, is probably the most elaborate, from a scenic standpoint, of any production to play here this season.

There are five complete and elaborate scenes and scenes, twenty-odd numbers; ten big dancing numbers and many electrical novelties.

The scene in the last act, stop a skyscraper, forming the "New York Roof Garden," with Broadway and its millions of lights in the immediate background, is a stage picture that one will remember for many a long day.

promote better farming, improve the home, help the church, conserve health and direct the social life of the community.

This session of "workers" will bring together teachers, ministers, and others who are engaged in some form of definite work for the improvement of the masses of the Negro people.

A number of State Superintendents of education, and other persons prominent in the educational work for the colored people have been invited to appear on program. The acceptances already received, and general interest manifested in the subjects for discussion indicate that the Twenty-seventh Annual Conference will be largely attended, and very successful meeting held.

In addition to the regular program there will be a number of interesting exhibits arranged by the various departments at the Institute. Among these, will be an exhibit showing various war substitutes for food which is being arranged by Prof. George W. Carver, Director of the Tuskegee Experiment Station. For information regarding the conference, write R. R. Moton, Principal, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.
